COMPETITION ON HORSEBACK WON BY LONG STRAIN

A Troop Wins Mounted Test
After Two Tie Scores, Both of Which Were Perfect

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Oct. 11.—The great rivalry between A Troop, commanded by Capt. John J. Boniface, and B Troop, commanded by 1st Lieut. William S. Martin, has been attracting considerable attention in the upper cantonments. Last week in baseball B Troop defeated A by a score of 3 to 0, but on Saturday morning A Troop was victor over B in a very interesting mounted competition, but only through drawing the long straw after the score had been twice tied and there seemed to be no other way to award the prize except by drawing lots.

The nature of the competition was such as to determine which of the two troops had their horses under the most perfect control, which is now the great aim in the training of cavalry mounts. Every member of both troops took part in the competition, and took his horse through four different stunts which were as follows:

1. Jump hurdle at trot, halt, immediately throw hat on ground and pick it up from the saddle.

2. Jump hurdle at gallop, halt within 30 yards, dismount on near side and mount on off side.

3. Gallop, halt in front of hurdle, jump hurdle from a stand into a ditch four feet deep on far side of hurdle, dismount and fire five rounds of blank ammunition, then lead horse out of ditch.

4. Describe figure 8 at trot and gallop, and halt in front of judges' stand.

The exhibition demonstrated beautiful training of the individual mounts, and was witnessed by a large number, including Brigadier General John P. Wiser, the commanding general at Schofield Barracks.

Those having the highest scores were Blacksmith Harding of Troop A and Stable Sergeant Marcy of Troop B, both having 98 per cent. For a final determination of the winner of the $25 prize these two horsemen were required to jump over four difficult hurdles, but both went through the ordeal with perfect scores. They then drew straws for the prize, Harding winning.

The judges were Lieuts. R. S. Donaldson, A. L. P. Johnson, and E. M. Owen, all of the 4th Cavalry.

RUFUS WILLIAMS AND PODSIMIK MIX AT BARRACKS

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Oct. 11.—The first boxing exhibition held at Schofield Barracks in many moons was a tremendous success Saturday night at the Cavalry-Artillery amusement hall, and the hall was many times too small to hold the many patrons of the boxing game, who swarmed from all parts of the post and filled every niche and corner an hour before Father Ignatius Fealy, the popular chaplain of the 1st Field Artillery, announced the first event on the program.

Beside other stunts the program consisted of six well chosen boxing bouts, ending in a 10-round bout between Rufus Williams and Joe Podsimik, one of the greatest boxing exhibitions ever staged at Lihuehwa. Some excellent selections by the 4th Cavalry band, and cigars all around helped to make the occasion a merry one.

No intrusion of law.

According to the new boxing order at Schofield, Colonel S. D. Sturges, 1st Field Artillery, commanding the upper cantonment, is held by the commanding general of the post strictly accountable that there should be no infraction of the statutes, and his representative, Chaplain Fealy, took the greatest care that the law was complied with in its most strict interpretation. The doors were thrown wide open, and each participant in the boxing exhibitions was made to understand that he appeared in the ring without any expectation of remuneration, and entirely of his own free will, to furnish a little pleasure to his soldier comrades.

The Preliminaries.

The first bout was between Sidney Johnson and Ralph Norton, both of B Battery, and was scheduled to last four two-minute rounds. "Britisher" Johnson was free with his swings, which had a fierce amount of steam, and Norton, outweighed some 10 or 15 pounds, was no match for him.

Clark and Frazier wanted to mix it up for two three-minute rounds, and mix it up they did. Both are skillful boxers and kept the crowd in a frenzy of excitement from the beginning to the end. Both wore a smile that would not wipe off and exchanged some stiff punches. The referee, Maj. E. L. Butts, would give no decision, but neither man had any advantage over the other.

"Bobby" Moore of the 1st Infantry replaced Maj. Butts as referee of the next three bouts.

Harry Hamilton Shows Class.

The third bout was between Harry Hamilton of the Signal Corps and Joe LeBlanc, a recruit in Battery E, 1st

THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

MEXICAN SITUATION GETS RAP IN 'NEAR HERO' BILL AT BIJOU

The Raymond Teal Musical Comedy show tonight at the Bijou theater will be "Almost a Hero."

Though the play is thoroughly a comedy piece, it nevertheless has a thread of a story which deals harshly with certain phases of the Mexican situation.

The music is an admirable accompaniment for a delightful play, it is said. There are late song hits throughout the entire program and some very pretty novelty numbers are introduced, according to the management.

Fritz Fields, as the "near hero," is said to be at his best. Claude Kelly is exceptionally funny and the other members are cast for parts for which they are particularly fitted. Raymond Teal has a new specialty which he will introduce. Mildred Manning will give another of her dances, and Madeleine Rowe and Hazel Lake have capital numbers. The new show has created particular interest from a box office standpoint and it is said there is a big seat sale all ready. The pictures will start at 7:30 and the musical show at 8:15.

STAGE BEAUTY IN BRET HARTE FILM

With the same identical scenery that Bret Harte knew so well how to paint in word pictures thrown on the screen; with the types with whom he was so intimately acquainted in the days gone by brought back to life for a short time, and with one of the most beautiful women of the day traveling back to the early days of California, "The Lily of Poverty Flat," the photo-play feature at the Hawaii theater for the current week, is playing to good houses "two a night" with a daily matinee that averages well.

Beatriz Michelena is the star of this production. Miss Michelena is not a new star to Honolulu, having proved a big favorite upon her initial appearance in "Mignon." Aside from her remarkable beauty she is a finished actress. She is a Californian by birth and the stories of Bret Harte and others of the earlier writers are the folk lore of her people.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn," the exciting "animal" serial in which the popular Kathlyn Williams meets and tames almost every animal worthy of the appellation of "wild," is also being shown each week at the Hawaii.

Field Artillery. The former was the more clever of the two and showed that he knew a great deal about the game. LeBlanc getting used up resorted to wrestling tactics which got him nowhere, and his seconds threw up the sponge just before the close of the third round.

The big crowd next enjoyed a four-round go between John Benson and John McAnena, both of Battery A. Benson thought he had McAnena in the first round when the latter lost his balance and toppled over on the mat. Benson tried to follow up his supposed advantage and met the punch from McAnena's right which has developed considerably "muck" from several months of work in the A Battery blacksmith shop. Benson forced the fight all the way through. No decision was given, but Benson was a shade the better man.

Andy Berger a Favorite.

For the preliminary a most interesting five-round exhibition was staged by Andy Berger of C Troop and Andy Kudnik of D Troop. Both men showed a fine spirit and a willingness to take some pretty stiff hammering with a smile. Kudnik was the aggressor in the first four rounds. Berger has an excellent defense and allowed his opponent to wear himself out, making only an occasional rush to let Kudnik know that he was still in the battle. In the fifth round Berger went at Kudnik like a whirlwind and demonstrated beyond a doubt that though some 10 pounds lighter, he was the better man of the two. Berger wanted to go another round, but Kudnik considered that he had had sufficient.

Rufus Williams and Podsimik.

The final number on the program was a 10-round bout between Rufus Williams (Cpl. Henry Polk, Company A, 25th Infantry), and Joe Podsimik of the Signal Corps company, Fort Shafter. Both were announced as weighing 160 pounds, but it looked as if Podsimik was a little the heavier. He is two or three inches taller than Williams and has a longer reach.

This is the first time that a colored man has met a white man in the ring at Schofield, and Capt. P. D. Glasford, who was selected to referee, announced that if there was the slightest demonstration of any race antipathy in the crowd that the bout would be immediately stopped. "Podsimik," he said, "is our guest from Fort Shafter, and we must treat him right, and Rufus, over here, is a fellow soldier as well, and when we go into battle, if we ever do, Rufus, with his expert rifleman's badge, will be right along with the rest of us." The crowd was absolutely impartial during the entire contest, and cheered both men alike every time they gained an advantage.

Some of the best boxing ever seen at Schofield was shown in this bout, which went the full ten rounds without either man gaining any decided advantage. In the fighting Podsimik had a little the better of it, but probably the five hardest wallops in the contest were delivered by Williams.

Some of these seemed to have steam enough to stagger the strongest man, but Podsimik emerged from them all without any apparent distress.

Rufus expects to box "Big" Michaels on the U. S. S. Maryland next Saturday and he will have all the fans from Schofield backing him with their best wishes (money being against the law).

Long practice hikes were started by the officers instructing the 416 civilians at the military training camp at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago.

MANY STARS SEEN ON LIBERTY FILM

With an initial engagement of one solid year in New York City, followed by several years "on tour," "The Woman" was one of the most popular dramas on the speaking stage of several years ago. As a result Jesse D. Laskey, in conjunction with David Belasco, has made a photo-play of "The Woman," the present offering at the Liberty theater. It was shown last night to a packed house, and will be repeated for the next three nights.

A rather unusual film offering is one without a star. "The Woman" is such a film. However, according to Laskey, the photo-play is produced by a "special star cast." Among the players are Lois Meredith, Theodore Roberts, James Neill, Ernest Joy, Michael Van Buren, Raymond Hatton, Tom Forman, Helen Hill and Dr. Beitel. The claim of a "special star cast" appears to be sustained.

In the action of the picture it would be difficult to pick any particular artist who excels over all the others. The demand for ability is well divided and all of the characters are ably handled. "The Exploits of Elaine," which appears in story form in the Star-Bulletin each Saturday afternoon, tells a story that is human and interesting. The photo-play is intensely thrilling. The artists are clever, including Pearl White and Arnold Daly.

KEA ARRESTED; HAD TWO EMPTY SHELLS IN POCKET

Two shots, one about 25 minutes after the other, were heard by Mounted Patrolman Chris Holt Sunday morning in Vineyard street. While going toward Lihuehwa street a little later Holt met Joseph Kea and asked him where the shots had been fired. The man made no answer, but pointed up the street. Holt arrested the man on the spot and found that he was carrying a revolver with two empty cartridges. He was held under a charge of carrying deadly weapons.
